| 5. CCTT Race and Equity Work | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Today's goals and intentions: To provide foundational ideas and time to reflect on holding conversations about race and increase confidence and commitment to engage in conversations. • Race and equity resources can be found on CCTT's Slack Channel. Email Kristina@ttcf.net to join. • CCTT will be revising its current Meeting Agreements to include agreements for safe, meaningful, vulnerable conversations about race and equity. Today we used the Guidelines for Authentic and Productive Conversations About Race by the Annie E Casey Foundation. | | |
| 6. CCTT Race and Equity Work Terminology: Microaggressions | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Microaggressions are defined by Derald Wing Sue of Columbia University as the everyday slights, indignities, put-downs and insults that members of marginalized groups experience in their day-to-day interactions with individuals who are often unaware that they have engaged in an offensive or demeaning way. • Partners broke out into small groups and talked about their experiences with microaggressions and the complexities of calling people in and | | |

| 7. CCTT Race and Equity Work Terminology: Calling In, Calling Out | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Definition of Calling Out: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Publicly letting someone know that their words or actions are unacceptable and will not be tolerated ○ Interruptive in order to prevent further harm ● Definition of Calling In: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Having a private, personal conversation with an individual who has used oppressive language or behavior. ○ Addresses the behavior without making a spectacle out of it | | |
| 8. CCTT Race and Equity Work: Tools and Examples for Organizations | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Partners reviewed and practiced in small groups the 3-part approach to calling in, calling out someone who commits a microaggression. The 3-part approach is as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Part 1: Set Grounding- shared beliefs and values. Grounding beliefs and values can help to clarify if a problem is a lack of shared values versus implicit bias, lack of knowledge or experience. Where relevant, use your agency's values as a guide. ○ Part 2: Creating Conversation Agreements because they can set the stage for discussions that are both respectful and honest. They can be referenced when a problem arises, if the problem is a violation of the agreements. ○ Part 3: Common Phrases. These are agreed upon phrases by your organization, and phrases that you can use on your own. ● CCTT will adopt this approach for the Collaborative and utilize it in meetings. ● This is one way (one tool) for organizations to work towards being anti-racist. ● Partners practiced using the common phrases | | |
